

MEDIA ADVISORY

Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex to Host Annual NASA Day of Remembrance Thursday, February 7, 2019

WHAT: NASA, in partnership with The Astronauts Memorial Foundation and Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex, will host NASA's Day of Remembrance on Thursday, February 7 at the Space Mirror Memorial. The ceremony will honor all astronauts who have sacrificed their lives while furthering the cause of space exploration and discovery. Robert Cabana, director of Kennedy Space Center, and Thad Altman, executive director and chief operating officer of The Astronauts Memorial Foundation, will speak at the ceremony.

Following the commemoration, a wreath laying ceremony will take place at the Space Mirror Memorial. Attendees will be given flowers to pay respects to our fallen heroes.

Interview opportunities will be available.

WHEN: Thursday, February 7
Media Arrival: 9:30 a.m.
Ceremony Begins: 10 a.m.

WHERE: Space Mirror Memorial,
Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex

WHO: Robert Cabana, director, Kennedy Space Center
Thad Altman, executive director and chief executive officer, The Astronauts Memorial Foundation
Sheryl Chaffee, daughter of Apollo 1 astronaut Roger Chaffee and vice-chair of AMF Board of Directors

To attend this event, please RSVP to:

Liz Feldman at lfeldman@hillmanpr.com, (443) 683-0917

Jordan Lusby at jlusby@hillmanpr.com, (443) 844-0754

Rachel Iorio at rriorio@delawarenorth.com, (321) 289-0921