

MEDIA ADVISORY

A New Way to Enter Space at Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex

Opening December 17, new entrance and parking plaza create a sense of arrival and better traffic flow to and from visitor complex

WHAT: A new entrance at Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex, designed to both excite visitors as well as create better traffic flow, will open on December 17, 2018. Join us to capture the first images and guest arrivals at the dramatic new entrance. From a new access road located off of Space Commerce Way, the entrance also includes a new parking plaza, designed to resemble NASA's crawler-transporter which carried the massive Saturn V rocket, the space shuttles and in the near future, will carry the Space Launch System (SLS) to their launch pads. The parking plaza features a total of six lanes. All parking fees will remain the same.

The new access road is located off of Space Commerce Way, to create better traffic flow to and from the visitor complex.

**PHOTO OPPORTUNITIES. ****

WHEN: Monday, December 17, 2018
9:45 a.m. Media Arrival

WHERE: Space Commerce Way, Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex

WHO: Therrin Protze, chief operating officer, Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex

Contact:

Rebecca Shireman at rshireman@delawarenorth.com, (321) 213-5926

Lauren Walbert at lwalbert@hillmanpr.com, (443) 683-0294